Installation

At DAS we work hard to ensure that the installation of your digital TV system causes the least amount of disruption to your business as possible - In the vast majority of cases the whole process takes no more than two days.

The cost of the whole operation is kept to a minimum because we have invested in technology that upgrades your existing TV reception system, rather than replaces it. A clever little piece of kit called a Digital Signal Processor receives the TV signal for your entire hotel. It's about the size of a laptop and is usually installed in a loft or roof space.

This state-of-the-art box then locks the signal onto each of the channels you've chosen and the signal is sent into every room via your existing TV system – upgrading it in an instant to a digital system.

From that moment on when your guests turn on their TV, they get beautifully clear pictures with pinsharp sound – and you own the entire digital system outright.

From the far reaches of Scotland to the tip of the West Country, guests enjoy quality digital TV night after night in hotels of all sizes via a DAS system.
